Dear Kara Jagne,

I am completing the assessment of your application for a temporary resident visa, and it appears that you may not meet the requirements for immigration to Canada.

Any person wishing to become a temporary resident in Canada must satisfy the visa officer that they are not inadmissible to Canada, that they meet all the requirements for admission and that they are not a member of a class of persons who are inadmissible to Canada under the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act.

Under subsection 11(1) of the Act, a foreign national must, before entering Canada, apply to an officer for a visa or other document required by the regulations, which are issued on proof, following an examination, that the foreign national is not inadmissible and complies with this Act. Section 2(1) of the Act specifies that, unless otherwise specified, any reference in the Act to "this Act" includes the regulations made under it.

I have reasonable grounds to believe that you do not meet the requirements of section 16(1) of the IRPA which states:

16(1) An applicant under this Act shall answer truthfully any questions put to him or her at an examination, shall give all relevant information and evidence, and shall produce any required endorsements and documents.

On examination of your application by an officer, it was noted after a visual examination of bank documents from Access Bank statement, that they seemed fraudulent. Please explain where, when and how these documents were obtained and why you submitted them in your application. You have 15 days to reply to the present letter.

If it turns out that you have made false representations in connection with your application for a temporary resident visa to Canada, you may be inadmissible under section 40(1)(a) of IRPA. Section 40(1)(a) of the Immigration and Refugee Protection Act, 2001 states that "a foreign national is inadmissible for directly or indirectly misrepresenting or withholding material facts relating to a relevant matter that induces or could induce an error in the administration of this Act. Paragraph 40(2)(a) specifies that the inadmissibility lasts for five years after the final determination, if the foreign national is not in the country.

You now have the opportunity to respond to this request. You must do so in writing within 15 days of the date of this letter. You must send any information and/or documents that you feel will address any concerns about your application for temporary residence.

I am advising you that you must provide true and accurate information, and that if you have provided false or misleading information, you may be found inadmissible to Canada for misrepresentation. It is a serious offence to provide false information.

If you do not respond to this request within 15 days, I will refuse your application for the reasons given above.

Sincerely,
Migration Officer
IRCC DAKAR
